KIBB DOCTOR LUCKY[™]

A FAMILY BOARD GAME
OF MURDER IN THE DARK

KILL DOCTOR LUCKY™

James Ernest, in association with Paizo Publishing® and Titanic Games™, presents an all-new version of the Cheapass Games® classic, Kill Doctor Lucky.

It's a stormy midsummer's evening at the J. Robert Lucky Mansion, ten seconds after midnight, and someone has just shut off the lights. You've hated Doctor Lucky for as long as you can remember, and you've secretly been awaiting this perfect chance to take the old man out. And, though you don't know it, everyone else in the house wants to kill him too.

Kill Doctor Lucky pits 3 to 7 players against each other in a race to see who can kill Doctor Lucky. The trick is that all the other players want to do it first and will stop at nothing to prevent you from having the pleasure. And the old doctor has earned his nickname well: he's got more lives than Rasputin and an uncanny knack for dodging your best traps. But his luck can't last forever. Before the game is over, someone is going to kill Doctor Lucky—wouldn't you rather it were you?

GAMEMASTERY™

CAMPAIGN WORKBOOK

A great GM is always thinking about his campaign, scribbling down a note about a cruel trick to play on his players in one notebook while composing diabolical dungeons in another. Instead, we suggest the GameMastery™ Campaign Workbook, a handsome leatherette-bound campaign journal small enough to carry with you at all times but big enough to handle all your campaign planning needs.

The GameMastery Campaign Workbook includes a campaign calendar to track game events, character birthdays, and important holidays. Blank globe templates allow you to sketch out your campaign world from sea to shining sea. An address book keeps all your players' addresses and phone numbers in one handy place, and a similar registry helps you keep track of the characters' key skill bonuses and combat information. An alphabetical NPC list tracks key characters and provides a handy place to take notes when things change during the course of play. Lastly, we've loaded the book with more than 100 pages of graph paper, so you can design your deadly dungeons in the same place you track your characters' experience points.

Stonehenge has always been a mystery, its original purpose lost in time. Titanic Games asks the question: what would five world-class game designers make of such a location if they were the ones to discover it?

Titanic Games presents the world's first Anthology Board Game™. We gathered together Richard Borg, James Ernest, Bruno Faidutti, Richard Garfield, and Mike Selinker and gave each of them the same board and pieces. Five unique designers resulted in five unique games:

An Arthurian showdown by Borg
 A Stonehenge fire sale by Ernest
 A druidic election by Faidutti
 A magical convocation by Garfield
 And an alien chariot race by Selinker

Because more brains = more fun.

Ptolus is a detailed fantasy city that rests in the shadow of a sinister three-thousand-foot Spire and is built upon the resting place of the worst evil in the history of the world. Heroes and dungeon-delvers visit the city from far-off realms to test their mettle against the unknown dangers that lurk below. The setting has seen constant action as the site of Monte Cook's home campaigns since his days co-designing the Third Edition rules.

Paizo Publishing®, LLC presents a line of lead-free, pewter miniatures for use with the Ptolus: City by the Spire campaign setting or any fantasy roleplaying game campaign.

GameMastery Combat Pad is the ultimate tool for managing combat in your favorite roleplaying game. It is a wet- and dry-erasable board with a steel core, so the included magnets stick right to it! It's portable—about the size of a sheet of paper—so you can take it anywhere you're gaming.

Blue, black, and green magnets help you to quickly and easily track all combatants and turn indicator and next round magnets help remind you and your players how far the battle has progressed. Delaying and readying guides make it simple to synchronize attacks: slide the player magnet to the proper guide and avoid the confusion common with other initiative tracking methods. There's even a notes section to keep track of spells and effects.

Each GameMastery Combat Pad includes:

- 1 magnetic wet- and dry-erase board
- 2 combat round indicators
- 8 player character magnets
- 5 non-player character magnets
- 8 enemy magnets
- 2 next round indicators
- 2 active turn indicators
